To Whom It May Concern:

This letter is to confirm that Surjakanta Kundu of the Indian Institute of Science Education and Research, Kolkata attended the 2021 Sagan Exoplanet Summer Workshop on "Circumstellar Disks and Young Planets". The workshop was hosted by the NASA Exoplanet Science Institute, which is on the campus of the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena, CA.

This year, due to the global pandemic, the workshop was held online with pre-recorded talks available on the Sagan Exoplanet Workshop YouTube channel, followed by a live webinar portion on July 19-23, 2021. The workshop included lecture presentations, hands-on sessions (<https://nexsci.caltech.edu/workshop/2021/handson.shtml>), a virtual poster session, and the opportunity to meet with the speakers in smaller Zoom meetings. More information on the workshop, including the agenda, can be found at: <https://nexsci.caltech.edu/workshop/2021/>.

Surjakanta Kundu registered for the workshop and attended the Zoom workshop webinar for a total of 20.6 hours during the week of July 19-23. They also attended the hands-on session on Disk Models; attended the hands-on session on Simulating Spectra of Planet Atmospheres.

Please let us know if you have any further questions.

Sincerely,
Ellen O'Leary
